Funding may delay school building

By Marianne Aiken

Almost $200 million in local school construction projects could be delayed because of a shortfall in state funds.

The money stopped flowing last month, said Floyd Stork, educational consultant with the architectural firm Wolff, Lang, Christopher of Rancho Cucamonga, when half the money from last November's $800 million bond issue ran out.

Carl Coleman, Fontana Unified School District director of planning and research, said schools got the bad news three weeks ago.

"In effect, in layman's terms, they told us, 'Don't call us until February because we don't have any money in the pot,'" Coleman said.

The next $400 million of the $800 million bond issue won't be sold until December, Stork said. That means all processing of state building projects is on hold.

"There's a cash flow problem between now and December," Stork said. "Then the next crisis comes in how long the next $400 million lasts.

"Unless the state is willing to loan some of their excess cash to the state allocation board and the money is paid back when bonds are sold, classrooms won't be built," Stork said.

Portable classrooms like these at Hermosa School are semi-permanent part of solution for the area's crowded school districts.

The completion of one local school — Bear Gulch School in Rancho Cucamonga's Central School District — will not start as scheduled because of the kink in the money flow, Stork said.

And a renovation project at Central Elementary School in the same school district also has come to a halt for the same reason, said Central Schools Superintendent Frank Cosca. School districts are trying to put pressure on the state Department of Finance to put the $400 million up front and not wait for the December sale of the bonds, said Upland schools Superintendent George Renworth.

The renovation of Upland High School and the construction of Peppertree Elementary School on 18th Street should be unaffected by the delay, Renworth said.

Statewide, between $2 billion and $3 billion in school construction projects are in the pipeline, Stork said.

Complicating the issue is a projected increase in California's public school enrollment of 31.4 percent, or 1.3 million students, in the next 10 years.

Statewide enrollment this fall will be 2.3 percent or 99,621 students higher than last fall's.

After decreasing for 10 years, the high school-aged population is starting to rise, Stork said.

High schools are typically first on the priority lists of school districts' building wish lists.

The Chaffey Joint Union High School District has two of them planned, one in South Ontario and another in Rancho Cucamonga.

A high school in North Fontana is the highest construction priority in the Fontana Unified School District.

Of all West Valley school districts, Fontana is probably in the worst building crunch, Stork said.

Planners, builders at odds over hospital site

By Lee Peterson

Rancho Cucamonga city planners and builders of a new "hospital without beds" do not agree on the best site for the future facility.

San Antonio Community Hospital's plan to erect a $12 million outpatient hospital in Rancho Cucamonga has been generally well received at City Hall, but planners are resisting the Upland hospital's efforts to build near Base Line Road between Rochester and Milliken avenues.

The city would rather the hospital be located more than a mile away at Milliken and Church avenues, as provided for in the Terra Vista Community Plan.

Hospital officials argue that the best site for the facility is south of Base Line at Mountain View Drive.

"That location is the center of the Rancho Cucamonga community today and basically through the rest of the century," said Kristine Isaacs, SACH vice president for marketing.

Isaacs said research indicates patients prefer to have health care facilities as close to their homes as possible, within a 10- to 11-minute radius. She also notes that the local ambulance company has endorsed the hospital's choice.

SACH President Ron Sackett said the hospital has an option to buy the 13-acre Base Line site and has spent much time and money in deciding on the property.

"We haven't determined what we'll do if we get turned down We don't have an alternative site," Sackett said.

Rancho Cucamonga Senior Planner Dan Coleman said the hospital would be an inconsistent land use at the Base Line spot.

The city also questions the traffic situation and whether the facility will fit into a primarily residential thoroughfare like Base Line.

Coleman said he doesn't see why the hospital wouldn't work at the Milliken spot, which has been zoned for just such use in the midst of the planned housing community.

The 80,000-square-foot facility would provide office space for 30 to 35 doctors. It will include emergency room, laboratory, X-ray services, out-patient operations and physical therapy.

Sackett said there is no need for a full in-patient hospital in the area, as it would only duplicate services which SACH is able to offer at its present facility at 999 San Bernardino Road in Upland.

Isaacs said studies show 40 percent of all health care in the United States is performed on an outpatient basis. That figure is expected to rise to 60 percent.

"I think the city would be happy to have any type of hospital whether it be in-patient or ambulatory care," Coleman said.

The city's planning commission was to meet Wednesday night to test the board's opinion on the Base Line site.

Action against nursing home recommended

By Diana E. Lundin

Citing numerous health and safety violations, the state health services department has recommended Medicare certification be pulled from an Upland nursing home.

Upland Convalescent Hospital has been under investigation since March by the health department's certification and licensing division, said district administrator Mary Jane Moore.

Moore said the nursing home had many complaints lodged against it.

"Some were substantiated, some were not," she said. "After a survey, we recommended it not be certified because it had so many non-compliances."

The state health services department makes certification recommendations to the Health Care Financing Administration, the federal agency charged with administering the Medicare program.

"They are the final word as to whether a facility is certified," Moore said. "We said, 'Hey, you've got some problems here and we cannot recommend an agreement.'"

Gary Dickerson, administrator of the Columbia West of California Corp.-owned hospital, said state inspectors arrived at the facility this week to resurvey the conditions.

"There have been problems here," he said. "We're correcting them."

Dickerson said he became administrator of the facility three weeks ago.

"What has gone on in the past, I can't speak to but for the last three weeks, we have been working to improve the situation. Although it's not perfect, we have improved things to the point that we anticipate having our certification reinstated," Dickerson said.

Among the citations issued to the convalescent hospital were:

- A shortage of nursing staff. "They did not have enough employees as required by regulations," said Moore.
- Catheters not cared for properly.
- Rough handling of a patient by an aide.
- Soiled linen not handled properly. Two inspections found barrels of linen with strong odors of ammonia, urine and feces stacked up to be washed.
- Clean sheets were overflowing onto the floor waiting to be dried.
- Patients did not receive special therapeutic diets as ordered.

- Food was not served to patients as listed on the dietitian's menu.
- Warm water temperatures ranged from 102 to 104 degrees in contrast to regulations which call for temperatures of 105 to 120 degrees.

The citations carry a fine if they are not corrected within a state-imposed compliance deadline, Moore said.

Most of the infractions are listed as Class B violations, meaning there is an imminent danger if they are not corrected. They are a step down from Class A citations, which mean there is a substantial probability that death or serious harm could occur because of the violations, she said. No Class A violations were found.

"These deficiencies and citations can be corrected," Moore said. "There is nothing irreversible."

A plan of correction must be submitted to the federal government in order for the certification to be restored.

Upland experiences water woes

By Diana E. Lundin

The pump is used to bring 1½ to 2 million gallons of water a day from Ontario to Upland.

A rubber hose dislodged from a suction pipe, causing the pump to overheat, he said.

Workers spent two days transferring a second pump to the site from a station elsewhere in Upland. The transfer leaves the city without a standby unit.

Meanwhile, the water department faced another problem last Wednesday when a contractor building a pipeline for Upland's water treatment plant at 17th Street and Benson Avenue damaged a 16,000-volt power supply.

The accident cut off power to the city's 17th Street booster station from 10 a.m. until 6:30 p.m., forcing the water utility to again use its reserve water supply.

Approximately 1½ million gallons of storage water were used during the second incident, Dilley said.

Study shows Foothill Freeway needed

By Richard Peraza

Members of the Route 30 Corridor Group were told last Thursday what they already know: They need the Foothill (30) Freeway.

Preliminary results of a needs-assessment study indicate that by the year 2010 all current local east-west routes will exceed design capacity "by anywhere from 20 to 90 percent. ... So, obviously, something is needed," said Dick Kaku.

Kaku is an associate consultant, a subcontractor secured by Parsons, Brinckerhoff, Quade & Douglas Inc. of Orange, an engineering firm hired by the Route 30 group to produce an environmental and alternatives analysis required before a new freeway can be built.

The proposed Foothill Freeway would extend from La Verne to San Bernardino, generally paralleling 19th Street as it passes through the West Valley.

Current east-west routes carrying traffic through the corridor area consist of 19th and 16th streets, Foothill Boulevard, the San Bernardino (10) Freeway and the Devore (15) Freeway.

The most congested areas are generally in the West Valley, Kaku said.

Some of the routes through the local area are already at 110 percent of capacity — or carrying 10 percent more traffic than they were designed for — and even the most sparsely used areas of the proposed corridor are at 50 percent capacity, Kaku said.

The design capacity — referred to as Level C — is the point beyond which a roadway ceases to function smoothly.

All studies confirm that the valley can look forward to an 83 percent population hike and 133 percent increase in employment by 2010, Kaku said. And, based on performance during the last decade, those figures are, "if anything, conservative."

The growth rate will swell the current travel demand of 220,000 cars per day through the east-west corridor to 420,000 per day in the next 23 years, said Kaku.

Several alternatives for dealing with the traffic have been examined and refined down to three basic options, he said:

- Build a freeway.
- Build an expressway.
- Build a freeway from La Verne to the Devore Freeway, then continue with an expressway eastward from that point on to San Bernardino.

An expressway might suffice east of Fontana, but shouldn't even be a consideration in the West Valley, Kaku said. "Even with a six-lane freeway there would still be some areas at capacity" in the year 2010.

If only a six-lane freeway can be built through the West Valley, it should be constructed to allow for expansion to eight lanes later, he said.

Some members said the state

Department of Transportation in recent years switched to a more congested standard — Level D, the maximum capacity — in deciding funding priorities.

"D is an abominable level of service," said Wes McDaniel, executive director of the San Bernardino Associated Governments, which serves as the county's Transportation Commission. He said the only reason the state uses that level is to conserve money.

"At a minimum, we can make a case for a six-lane (freeway) because that's a D-level," he said. "Maybe we've got to do a song and dance for an extra lane."

Successful passage of Measure A, a proposed half-cent sales tax increase for highway improvements to be placed before voters Nov. 3, would give the county extra leverage in dealing with the state by demonstrating roads mean enough locally to generate local funding. Some Measure A money would be used to help complete the Foothill Freeway.

And although the measure wouldn't fund any work west of the San Bernardino County line, it could indirectly help Pomona and La Verne officials by giving them less unfinished Foothill Freeway funding to lobby for, McDaniel said.

Making birth a touching experience

Preparation can avert trauma on 1st day of school

By Suzanne Sproul

Your lazy days of sitting around the house soon will be over.

Enter the hustle and bustle of getting children up, fed and dressed on time to be in the classroom before the tardy bell rings.

For some there will be new schools to find, teachers to meet and probably a few reassuring hugs called for.

Oh, how lovely, the start of yet another school year is upon us.

But the first few days back at school don't have to be trying ones for both parents and students.

Take a tour

"If a child has gone to preschool, he probably already is programmed for routine. But for the child who didn't go to preschool, the first day can represent a frightening time.

"I think the mother or father and the child should make a mini tour of the school, to familiarize themselves with the plant. Most schools have orientation programs and I believe they are very helpful," said Arlo Siegersma, director of the Family Growth Center in Claremont.

Siegersma said he would even take the orientation tour one step further.

"If a child walks to school, I think it would be a good idea if a parent also walks with the child for at least the first several days. Make it a shared experience. Most parents both work, but if it's practical, parents might want to take a few days off from work at the beginning of the school year.

"You have to realize it's tough to leave mom, but it's also tough for mom to leave the child. Going to school is the first major milestone for a child. It's the start of his socialization," he said.

Sandy Hughes, Sierra Vista School principal in Upland, said kindergarten and new-student orientation programs do help overcome potential first-day blues.

"Here at Sierra Vista we have the orientation programs just before school starts. Parents and children are invited to visit the school, the classroom and to meet school personnel. No matter how old he or she is, you have to overcome a certain amount of anxiety with a new school. We serve cookies and punch and then teachers also have an opportunity to talk with the parents," Hughes said.

And if a program seems too structured, Hughes said she encourages all parents and children to visit their schools now since most are open.

Gary Hall, principal of Deer Canyon School in Rancho Cucamonga, said the first day of school can be "quite an adventure."

"The first day usually goes by, though, with minimal problems. The biggest headache is getting children on the right buses. We will provide name tags this year with information about the child's bus schedule on it. We want to make sure everyone gets home safely," Hall said.

"We want everyone to know about their school. That's why we encourage people to stop by and ask questions," said Loel Miller, Euclid School principal in Ontario.

"We want to communicate. For example, names are our base of identification. We want to know if a child should be called Philip or Phil. We want the child to feel comfortable in his school," Miller said.

Eat for success

Another way of being prepared for school is to eat a good breakfast, according to Gwen Riggs, registered dietician at Pomona Valley Community Hospital.

"Some studies show that children are lethargic and inattentive in class if they haven't had a good breakfast. My advice is not to let your child start off on a disadvantage. You want them to have a good start," Riggs said.

Riggs said parents are the most important influence in a young child's life.

"I know most parents work and it's very hectic to get everyone going in the mornings, but I think parents should make an attempt to have breakfast with the child. Also you should allow enough time for breakfast — oh, about 30 minutes. It may not take that long, but at least you've allowed time," she said.

RETIREES EXPLORE SECOND CAREER THROUGH H & R BLOCK TAX COURSE

Many retirees take their initial step toward a second career with the H & R Block Income tax Course.

H & R Block, the nation's largest income tax preparation firm, has offered the course for more than 30 years. This year's course starts on September 14. Students may choose from morning, afternoon evening, Saturday or Sunday classes held for a 13-week period at over 100 area locations. Experienced Block instructors guide students through various aspects of income tax preparation. Classwork includes discussion, practice problems, and hands-on experience preparing individual tax returns. This year's course will also cover the new tax law rules and regulations for 1987.

Qualified tax course graduates may be offered job interviews for positions with Block. Many Block employees find the flexible hours a plus. However, Block is under no obligation to offer employment, nor are graduates under any obligation to accept employment with Block.

One low fee includes all materials, supplies, and textbooks. The course is approved by the Department of Consumer Affairs Tax Preparer Program for 75 hours continuing education credit TPP #0109-80-3-001. The course offers ideal training for men and women who want to supplement their retirement income and learn about the 1987 tax reform changes. It offers enrollees a profitable way to use their spare time, and to make new friends. Graduates of the course learn a practical skill they can put to immediate use.

Can't stand heat? It's been worse

By Betsy Brady

You haven't been imagining things.

Summer temperatures have been unseasonably cool in the West Valley this year and the air has been less smoggy.

"It has been unusually cool this entire summer. We haven't gotten that intense heat this year, making it terribly uncomfortable," said Gary London, an amateur meteorologist from Claremont.

According to the National Weather Service, Ontario International Airport recorded a high of 91 degrees on Aug. 20, compared to 101 degrees registered the same day in 1986.

Data have not been received since Aug. 20 because the airport's thermometer is on the blink, said Mark McKinley, weather service meteorologist.

McKinley and London reasoned the cooler weather is a result of a westerly flow of cool air off the Pacific Ocean.

The last time temperatures in the West Valley hit 100 was on Aug. 1, when the airport recorded 102 degrees.

Air temperature during the summer of 1986 was about two degrees higher than the average high of 85.8 degrees and the average low of 52, London said.

This year, June and July temperatures have been anywhere between 2 to 4 degrees below the normal average, he said.

It has also been a dry summer, London said.

No rainfall has yet been recorded in August this year. July records show only .08 inches of rain on July 20. In June, a significant rain shower You've tried everything, but nothing works. You wonder if there's hope.

There is hope. And help... special help for special problems at CPC Horizon Hospital.

Under the direction of a physician, a team of mental health professionals help teenagers cope with growing up, and help them get back in touch with their families.

"Children simply are going to do better when they eat breakfast. Stay away from serving sugary foods. They will only slow your child down," said Mary Booth, registered dietician at Kaiser Permanente Hospital in Fontana.

"But if you don't have time to sit down and eat breakfast, then make peanut butter and jelly sandwiches or quesadillas and fruit and let the kids eat in the car," she said.

Nutritious lunches also can help give students an academic boost.

"If you're worried about spoilage, try freezing meat sandwiches. By lunch time they'll thaw. And those new fruit juices in cartons? Why not freeze them and they will help keep your child's lunch cold," Riggs said.

And since most younger children are more preoccupied with playing during lunch than eating, Riggs and Booth suggested making the noon meal easier.

"Cut up that orange or cut the sandwich in diagonals. Or maybe, if the children are very young, use cookie cutters to cut the sandwiches. Try thinking of ways to make lunch easier to eat in a hurry and less boring," Riggs said.

Create quiet time

Homework assignments may come home soon, particularly for older children. To help keep your child organized, Miller suggested setting aside a segment of the evening for that child.

"Children should have a daily place for their quiet time. Their time could be spent doing homework or reading, but it should be their time," he said.

Miller said this quiet time is ideal for parents to encourage reading and writing with their children.

"I would encourage parents to read to their young children. That will help them develop their oral language and reading skills," he said.

"Also offer them an opportunity to write. Don't worry about spelling and all that. All they to be creative," he said. Dress for flash

A traditional pilgrimage most mothers and children make before the first school bell rings will be to the store. A new school year without something new to wear that first day? Heaven forbid.

"For young boys, a more sophisticated look is definitely hot," said Jack Khzouz, Nordstrom boyswear buyer in a back-to-school release. Acid-washed denims will be a frontrunner, with pants displaying a fuller cut.

"A wide range of styles and looks are popular with young girls. The updated denims and more traditional, plaid dresses or skirts with long cardigans are both popular looks," said Parri Hill-Corlew, Nordstrom girls buyer.

Junior high and high school girls want short skirts for this year, according to Pam Sali, Nordstrom Brass Plum buyer. They will be paired with cropped tops or crested cardigans.

Neutral colors will be popular for older guys. "Hot items are mock turtle necks, leather bomber jackets and oversized fleece," said Cherie Lawell, Nordstrom Brass Rail buyer.

Finally, a child's enthusiasm about school and learning may be influenced by that of parents, according to local educators.

"The message we want to convey at Euclid School is that in order to have success in education, educators, parents and students need to work together," Miller said. "We can't do it alone. Parental involvement is encouraged and not just in fund-raising activities."

And if your child thinks the first day of school wasn't all it was cracked up to be, try offering encouragement.

"Help the child feel as secure as possible. If there is something about school bothering your child, talk it over with him. Try and put yourself in your child's place," Siegersma said.

occurred on the 6th, dumping .28 inches of rain and even small hailstones, he said.

The cool weather — which meteorologists predict will stay — has brought cleaner air to the West Valley, said Ron Ketcham, district spokesman for regional smog regulators.

From January to Aug. 27 of this year, only 10 days had first stage smog alerts. During the same time last year, 31 days in the West Valley had first stage episodes, Ketcham said.

1985 saw 32 first stage episodes between January and August, compared to 36 in 1984 and 40 episodes in 1982 and 1983, he said.

A first-stage alert means air quality is unhealthy and residents are urged to curtail strenuous outdoor activity.

"This has been amazing," Ketcham said. "The decrease (in smog alerts) has a great deal to do with the weather. The air quality has been substantially better."

Ketcham said the West Valley is the only area where a third-stage alert has been recorded since 1974, the year it occurred.

Air quality during a third stage alert is twice as bad as a first stage and is considered hazardous to all people. Residents are told to stay at home. "It's a holiday from work," he said.

Cooler summer weather doesn't necessarily mean the demand for electricity is down, according to Clark Burnett, area manager for the Southern California Edison Co.

Cooler weather doesn't mean people use less electricity, he said.

"(Use) never seems to correspond to the weather," Burnett said.

Comparison figures on the electricity use this summer compared to prior years were not available Thursday from the utility company.

YOUR BENEFITS UNDER WORKER'S COMPENSATION

Thomas W. Moga,
Attorney At Law
(Board Certified Specialist)

HEART ATTACKS !! ARE THEY COVERED UNDER WORKERS' COMPENSATION?

To be covered by Workers' Compensation the heart attack must be caused by your employment. If it is caused or brought about by your employment, then it is covered.

For example, when a furniture mover has a heart attack after carrying a refrigerator up 100 stairs, it is easy to show that the attack was caused by the employment.

Physical exertion can cause "heart attacks."

Consider these other examples:

1. Heart attacks while loading or unloading (truck drivers, deliverymen, etc.)
2. Heart attacks occurring while restraining two employees from a work-related altercation.
3. Heart attacks occurring while running to stop a fellow employee from leaving the work premises.
4. Heart attacks occurring while shoveling, digging, etc.
5. Heart attacks & strokes occurring while working in extreme heat.

ALL HEART ATTACKS SHOULD BE INVESTIGATED TO SEE IF THEY COULD BE CAUSED BY YOUR EMPLOYMENT. STRESS CAN ALSO CAUSE HEART ATTACKS. (We will cover this next week).

THERE IS NO CHARGE FOR ADVICE ON MATTERS REGARDING WORKERS' COMPENSATION.

CHP wants motorcycle patrols on valley roads

By Lori Moody

If you catch a glimpse of a uniformed Highway Patrol officer riding a motorcycle on a West Valley freeway, chances are he's headed for work elsewhere.

Capt. Al Irwin, commander of the Ontario office of the California Highway Patrol, would like to see that change.

"We need them (motorcycles)," he said.

The CHP currently has 333 motorcycles and 2,200 four-wheel vehicles in use throughout the state.

Irwin said when he first asked for motorcycles for the Ontario office three or four years ago the request was denied because of budgetary reasons. He intends to try again.

"Motorcycles are predominately assigned to Los Angeles, San Diego, the Bay area and Sacramento — and rightfully so," Irwin said.

However, the congestion on Los Angeles area freeways has extended east into the West Valley, he said.

In 1974, 85,000 vehicles drove on the San Bernardino Freeway at Central Avenue, according to the annual average daily travel figures compiled by the California Department of Transportation. That figure is nearly double in 1986.

While the number of vehicles on local freeways has increased over the past 12 years, so has the population of West Valley cities and the number of drivers and vehicles in the county.

In 1974, there were 437,400 licensed drivers and 534,296 registered vehicles in San Bernardino County compared to 719,700 licensed drivers and 928,566 registered vehicles in 1986.

"Motorcycles will help us respond better to areas of high congestion," Lt. Mark Schock said. "When the freeway is a parking lot and nobody's moving, police cars can't move."

Motorcycles can "split traffic" and maneuver faster on the highway shoulder than a patrol car, he said. Both the center divider and the shoulder of the San Bernardino Freeway through the Ontario area are narrow, making it more difficult for a patrol car to get to an accident scene, Irwin said.

Long a symbol of traffic enforcement, motorcycles have been part of the CHP since the agency officially formed on Aug. 14, 1929, according to spokesman Kent Milton at the CHP's Sacramento headquarters.

Unlike today, CHP officers in those early days had to purchase their patrol vehicles. Occupational safety considerations were non-existent, Milton said.

"As we grew up, as law enforcement grew up, we understood motorcycles are intrinsically more hazardous than cars," he said.

Since 1929, 162 CHP officers have died on duty, and 70 of those were motor officers.

Milton said there have been no fatalities since 1975, which he attributed to tougher safety standards for equipment, such as the officers' helmets, and training.

There was a time about 20 years ago when the CHP had 450 motorcycles on patrol, he said. The force was greatly reduced as training and safety were emphasized. Now the force has grown at a steady pace sending "a clear message of the congestion in California," Milton said.

The CHP has a certain criteria when considering adding motorcycle patrols to an area. Congestion is a predominant reason. But officials also look at population growth and trends, the number of metered ramps and diamond lanes, influence of daily commuter traffic, special events that would affect traffic, highway design and collisions.

At one time, every new recruit to the CHP was trained to ride a motorcycle. Now only those candidates for the motorcycle patrol undergo a rigorous 10-day class, even though virtually all are experienced riders, said CHP spokeswoman Susan Cowan-Scott.

The cost of a patrol car and the equipment is $17,000. A motorcycle, fully equipped, costs $8,000, and the training is $1,538, she said.

Operating costs are higher. Motorcycles cost 23 cents per operating mile compared with 19 or 20 cents for a patrol car.

Irwin asked for about 12 motorcycles in his last request about four years ago. He said he is unsure how many he'll request again, but it won't be any less.

The CHP's Riverside office is also conducting a study to determine the effectiveness of a motorcycle patrol, Officer John Anderson said.

In 1983, the commander at the time submitted a request for 10 motorcycles but was denied, Anderson said. The current commander, Capt. Sam Russell, is not committing himself pending the results of the study, he said.
